

Weaving Good Cloth

Weaving Workshop with Liz Spear

March 9 – 11, 2012

Longmont Museum and Cultural Center

400 Quail Rd.

Longmont, CO 80503

Bring your loom, dressed with your favorite yarn and structure, ready to weave cloth for clothing or home use. Learn to make your less favorite parts of the process less painful, and the fun parts last longer. We'll talk about weaving cloth for garments, weaving a variety of projects on one warp, effective color play, the all-important finishing, (appropriate to end use), and fearless, efficient weaving. Liz will bring lots of samples, tips, stories, and her own fully dressed loom full of a yardage warp, complete with a couple of special collaborative projects to show and share, in process.

Pre-workshop communication with questions and concerns encouraged.
Advanced beginning weavers and beyond, please.

Resource and Bibliography lists.

Artist's Biography

Liz Spear is a full-time maker, weaving cloth, and sewing comfortable, classic garments with that cloth. She finished a BFA in Ceramics at St. Cloud State, Minnesota, in the fall of 1977, because she couldn't figure out what she wanted to weave, full-time. After working as a potter for 13 years, she relocated to Western North Carolina and studied with Catharine Ellis at Haywood Community College. Liz found that she wanted to weave yardage and cut and sew clothing, primarily for women. She markets her work through professional craft organizations and teaches a couple of times a year at various national craft schools.
